

Now is the time for Redmond to make a fortune and spread his fame throughout America. If he can only secure a continuance of the prosecutions against him, we suggest that his road to fortune and fame will be an easy one, if he will only make a lecturing tour of the United States. He would attract immense assemblies to hear his interesting romance. "There is millions in it." If he cannot make better arrangements, he might go into partnership with the national administration, and after a fair divide have a handsome income from his lectures.

Governor Hampton has withdrawn the offer of a reward for the capture of Lewis R. Redmond, of Pickens County, sketch of whose life we published a few weeks ago. In doing this the Governor has done what we deem a considerable and proper action, in view of the recent developments in this case. That Redmond has been more sinned against than sinning in revenue matters, is now believed by nine-tenths of the best people of this section of the State, we think it is about time for a truce, so far as he is concerned. If the Government will let him alone, we have no doubt that he will become a peaceable and useful citizen. At any rate, he should have the opportunity given him, for he has been prosecuted far more than he has ever injured any one.

Mr. Eugene Hale's Congressional Republican Campaign Committee has not succeeded in securing money from the Federal officials in Washington as rapidly as they expected, and have recently addressed a circular to these officials, stating that the committee know they are very busy in the day time, and to give them an opportunity to respond to the invitation to contribute to campaign purposes, the committee will keep their rooms open until eleven o'clock at night. This last circular shows the committee to be determined to have the money asked for, if perseverance will secure it, and justifies the suspicion that Mr. Hale and his administration are conspiring at this mode of raising money, for if they do not approve it, the time has come when they should say to the government employees that they are at liberty to refuse to contribute to this committee, and that they shall not lose their positions if they do not subscribe.

THE LADD MURDER CASE.

At a late meeting of the Cabinet in Washington, this case was made the subject of a Cabinet consultation, and it is reported that under the advice of Attorney-General Devens, it was determined to sue out, under direction of the United States Courts, a writ of Habeas Corpus, the object of which is to take the Revenue murderer from the custody of the State officers, and commit them to that of the United States Marshal, under the direction of the United States Circuit Court. The infamy of this proceeding is evident, when it is considered that the object is not the protection of the innocent and the punishment of the guilty, but the protection and liberation of men charged with murder without trial. This infamous act was accomplished in the case of Mattison, the Revenue murderer, who had his case transferred from the State to the Federal Court, and there admitted to bail, and although years have passed, he has never been tried and never will be, and even if he should be tried in the United States Court and found guilty, he could not be punished for murder in that court. What was accomplished in the Mattison case, is now attempted in the case of the murderers of young Ladd, and it is to be seen if our courts will remain firm and maintain the majesty of the Constitution and laws of the United States and of South Carolina, and thus afford protection to the lives of the people, or by yielding, place the lives of our people at the mercy of irresponsible Revenue officers. We hope our courts will remain firm, and the people will sustain them. We do not see how, if the Sheriff having in custody the murderers should remain firm, the United States authorities can obtain the custody of them by virtue of the writ of Habeas Corpus. The court cannot decree the custody of the prisoners until they are actually produced in court. But suppose the sheriff should decline to produce them, and in reply to a rule to show cause why he should not be declared in contempt of court, should show for cause, that he held the prisoners under the Federal and State Constitution and laws, and by virtue of the decision of a court of competent and exclusive jurisdiction of the cause that the United States Circuit Court had no right to review or annul that decision, and that until that decision was set aside by either the Supreme Court of the State or of the United States, he regarded it as his sworn duty to retain the custody of the prisoners. The decision of the Circuit Court as to the sufficiency of the cause shown would be made by the court, subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, but in the mean time the prisoners would remain in the custody of the sheriff. This is the course the case should take if the writ of Habeas Corpus should be issued; but it is likely that the Federal officers, knowing that this would not set the murderers free, without trial, permit it? Is it not more than probable that they will pursue the same course pursued in reference to the State Board of Censors, direct the Marshal to take the custody of the prisoners, and then discharge them; or as in the case of Madison, bail them on their own recognizance and then never try them. We protest against this outrage upon law, justice and civilization, against the interference with full power to try and determine the case, by a court with no power to try and punish the guilty, whose interference is for mischief and only mischief. It would be distinctly understood that our law-abiding citizens, and that they would submit to it until it was changed; but impressed as they are that this court has no constitutional right to degrade the State Judiciary, to deprive it of its jurisdiction, and by the assumption of powers to become the asylum of murderers, they will stand by the State Courts and resist as best they can all attempts to paralyze the State Courts in the protection which they afford to every citizen against murderers, whether they be Revenue officers or other desperadoes.

THE CIVIL SERVICE ORDER.

The President in issuing his civil service order soon after his inauguration, inspired the country with the hope that it was possible that although the present administration had been inaugurated through fraud, yet it was the intention to, in a measure, atone for the crime against good government which the Republican party perpetrated to continue itself in power, by giving to the country a term of genuine political reformation. However well founded these hopes may have appeared at the beginning, it will hardly be contended now that they were founded upon anything more substantial than an illusion intended to distract the public mind from the contemplation of the frauds which secured the promotion of the present administration. In nothing except words has there been any indication of reform, and the celebrated civil service order, which proposed to prohibit Federal officials from engaging in, or even participating in party politics, has section by section been explained so as to allow contributions from Federal officials, and even membership of primary organizations and State Conventions. The order appears to have no meaning. The recent circulars of the Republican campaign committee have not secured contributions from many Federal officials through this State, and the result is, that in some instances the amount of work required of these officials has been increased, and the inquiry suggests itself, does this mean pay up or quit? It has been said by the President that Federal officers have the right to give their money for campaign purposes if they wish, and there are many who would like to know if they are to enjoy the equal privilege of withholding it if they desire. The President and the heads of departments should settle the civil service question by saying definitely whether officers are to retain their positions on account of political services or for their competency and fitness. They have said that their appointees have the right to give money if they wish. Why do they not say also that they have the right to refuse if they please, and that they shall not be disturbed in their offices if they see fit to keep their money. The administration should answer this question squarely, or it will be right and proper for the country to conclude that it is in league with the Congressional Committee to levy large contributions from government officials for a campaign fund.

THE WHITE "ALWAYS AD."

Is the Easiest Selling, The Best Satisfying, SEWING MACHINE.

ITS introduction and world-renowned reputation was the death blow to high priced machines. There are no second-hand WHITE MACHINES in the market. This is a very important matter, as it is a well known and undisputed fact that many of the so-called first-class machines which are offered so cheap nowadays are those that have been repossessed (that is taken back from customers after use) and resold and put upon the market as new.

The White is the peer of any Sewing Machine now upon the market. It is a well known fact that the family machines of the Singer, Howe and Weck make. It costs more to manufacture than either of the aforesaid machines. Its construction is simple, positive and durable. Its workmanship is unsurpassed.

Do not buy any other before trying the White. Prices and terms made known by the White. For sale by
